

Chicago Notes and Bibliography Sample

Chicago style often relies on notes, which means the paper needs to show how references work in context.¹ The note system lets readers jump from the text to the source details without breaking the flow.

Sample Notes

1. Ellen Parker, Academic Writing Made Clear (Boston: Northbridge Press, 2025), 42.
2. Jordan Smith, "Footnotes and Endnotes in Practice," Journal of Writing Studies 14, no. 2 (2026): 18-31.

Bibliography

Parker, Ellen. Academic Writing Made Clear. Boston: Northbridge Press, 2025.

Smith, Jordan. "Footnotes and Endnotes in Practice." Journal of Writing Studies 14, no. 2 (2026): 18-31.

This sample uses real note references and a bibliography so readers can see how Chicago style separates the note and source layers.
